

Preface

We are glad to present the proceedings of the 2nd International Conference on Efficient Production and Processing (ICEPP-2021)!

This year, ICEPP took place online, but we managed to preserve the quality of the conference and achieve its main goal - the creation of strong collaborative chains between scientists.

We hosted participants in three main sections: Food Science and Agriculture, Waste treatment and Urban Environment Construction. Each of these sections was presented by both respected and honored scientists and young professionals.

This proceedings presents only a part of the participants' articles, as we have also selected manuscripts for two additional editions in more specific areas. However, we are sure that you will enjoy reading and find many interesting points for yourself!

The number of participants increases every year, and we invite you to join us next time!

All the best,
ICEPP organizing committee